

GLOBAL DISASTERS AND WORLD SOCIETY:
THE ECOLOGICAL DIMENSION OF MODERN WORLD-SYSTEM CRISIS

From March 25 to March 27 2024
Florianopolis, Brazil | Zoom

Nov 20, 2023.

Notification of acceptance for presentation at the central conference in Florianopolis.

Authors	Title
Abel A. Alves	Beyond the Anthropocene? Living with Today's Troubles and All Animal Survivors
Andrey Korotayev	6th century CE global climatic disaster, origins of Islam, and its world-systems consequences
Daniel de Pinho Barreiros	Pandemia, complexidade e sistemas-mundo: um estudo sobre a Peste Antonina (165-180 EC)
Daniel Ribera Vainfas	Climate in 14 th Century England, catastrophic change, social strategies and the origins of capitalism
David Schwartzman	An Ecosocialist Strategy for Climate Security
Fathun Karib	The Management Questions: From Disaster Management to Planetary Management
Fred Spier	How did humanity get itself into its current ecological predicament?
Giacomo Otavio Tixiliski	O pensamento xamânico no Capitaloceno: uma tentativa de construção de alianças no fim do mundo
Glen David Kuecker	Resisting Capitalist Reproduction in the Liminal State
Júlia Eduarda Gouveia Rabelo de Abreu & Bruno Andrade Teixeira	Neoextrativismo na economia mundo-capitalista: o desastre do rompimento da barragem em Mariana (MG-Brasil) e suas contraposições político-sociais
Leonid E. Grinin & Anton Grinin	Depening world system crisis, reconfiguration of the world system and their possible influence on destabilization and ecological degradation
Leslie Sklair	The transition to socialism: community by community
Paola Huwe de Paoli	O Antropoceno na governança global do clima: uma análise das estratégias de mitigação da emergência climática
Roberto J. Ortiz	The Rise and Ongoing Demise of Fossil-Fueled Development: Late Capitalism and State Socialism in World-Ecological Perspective
Toufic Sarriddine	The Less-Smoking Gun? A World-Systems Analysis of Carbon Intensity in the Belt and Road Initiative
William K. Carroll	From Fossil Capitalism to a Liveable World: Critique and Alternatives

Papers that we are not able to include for presentation at the central conference in Florianopolis, we would suggest that you submit your abstract to one of the remote hubs that will be linking up to the central conference (see below).

At the time of this writing there are plans for local hub conferences being organized by the following colleagues:

GLOBAL DISASTERS AND WORLD SOCIETY:
THE ECOLOGICAL DIMENSION OF MODERN WORLD-SYSTEM CRISIS

From March 25 to March 27 2024

Florianopolis, Brazil | Zoom

1. Carlos Eduardo Martins cadu.m@uol.com.br and Daniel Barreiros <daniel.barreiros@ie.ufrj.br > at the Federal University of the Rio de Janeiro, Brasil
2. Bruno Hendler, Federal University of Santa Maria, Santa Maria, Brasil <bruno_hendler@hotmail.com>
3. Vishwas Satgar, University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa<Vishwas.Satgar@wits.ac.za
4. Sahan Karatasli, University of North Carolina- Greensboro <sskarata@uncg.edu>
5. Beverly Silver <silver@jhu.edu> and Patricio Korzeneiwicz korzen@umd.edu at the University of Maryland
6. Alessandro Morosin, LaVerne University, Los Angeles <amorosin@laverne.edu>
Chris Chase-Dunn at the University of California-Riverside <chriscd@ucr.edu

Please respond to chriscd@ucr.edu and fabio.padua@ufsc.br if you have questions.

The Global Disasters Conference Organizing Committee

